Property owners and city council gridlocked over boundaries

By LISA BICKNELL

CV&T News Editor

Land owners from the Kirkland Avenue area and Chestnut Street were again in attendance at the Irvine City Council meeting to question why they should now pay city taxes on land where they've paid county taxes for decades.

Danny Click said there is no record showing that the property was annexed.

Mayor Ernest Farmer said, "All I have is the map." He said as far as he is concerned, if property is included within the city map, that city taxes should be paid on it.

"The city council voted on and approved this map," said Farmer.

City Attorney Rodney Davis said the map on display at city hall is the same as the one from the Secretary of State's office. He said he had spent a day or a day and a half looking for record of changes made to the city boundary but has been unable to find anything.

Dwight Arvin and Margaret Durbin also addressed the council about being billed for city taxes.

Arvin said "I just don't see how...it is hard for me to comprehend how there is no record of it being annexed."

He also said the Jewel Ridge Coal Company paid taxes on the property before he purchased it in 1963. "There has to be some sort of documentation," he said. He also noted that the city started out with 20 and one half acres.

Davis said he has searched for "every single thing I can find," and he regrets that the landowners have not been

Mayoral candidates clash

By LISA BICKNELL

Councilman William "Pigg" Van Cleve, also a candidate for Ravenna mayor, had lots of questions for current mayor Estine Tipton and the Ravenna City Council during Monday night's meeting.

There was much contention over the lack of pay rate ordinances for the mayor and city council, as well as full and part-time employees.

Councilman William Van Cleve brought up the issue, and the mayor and city clerk said they hadn't been able to find any such existing ordinances in the records.

Van Cleve insisted, "We need one, because the law says we are supposed to have one."

When Mayor Estine Tipton pointed out that

The Colors of Hope

Despite gray skies and the threat of rain, about 130 runners and walkers showed up for the Color of Hope 5K on Saturday morning, October 11. The "color run" route wound down Broadway and up River Drive. It was un-timed and just for fun, with all proceeds benefitting Hospice Care Plus, which includes hospice home care, nursing home care, and the Compassionate Care Center in Richmond. Organizers said the fundraiser netted about $2,200. Participants were urged to wear white, but by the end of the race, most were wearing a rainbow of colors after they were doused with colored cornstarch. For additional photos, see page A•17.

Breast cancer patient credits family, faith, and survivor mode for her healing

By LEE FREEMAN

CV&T Contributor

Adrian Stewart Friend will never forget the day her world changed. July 16, 2013, just 12 days before her birthday, she got an unexpected surprise that no one wants. She was home alone and her phone rang. On the other end of the line, a woman asks "Mrs. Friend?"

"Yes," Adrian stated. And that's when she heard what no woman wants to hear. "You have breast cancer." At that moment, she felt like the floor could open up and swallow her. She cried. She asked herself what could have caused it. No one in her family ever had breast cancer. She thought about the few times she placed her cell phone in her bra. She wondered if it was a gene she would pass on to her daughter. Everything was racing in her mind as she felt what she knew as her life falling apart.

When her husband and daughter arrived home, she gave them the devastating news. Adrian said that watching her family's hearts break and tears flow for the diagnosis she had just been given moments early changed her outlook completely.

"You never imagine what your life is going to be like with cancer," she states. "The first five minutes was my time to cry. After that, when the mom and wife in me saw my family in tears, I knew I would not let cancer get me down. From that moment on, survivor mode kicked in! It's still in and it's still going!"

Adrian went through a lumpectomy where her doctor removed one malignant and one benign tumor from her breasts. The surgery was just the beginning. She faced a hard road. She started her first chemo treatment on September 11, 2013 and finished with her sixth and final chemo in December of that same year. She had a brief time off from treatments before she started her first radiation treatment in February 2014.

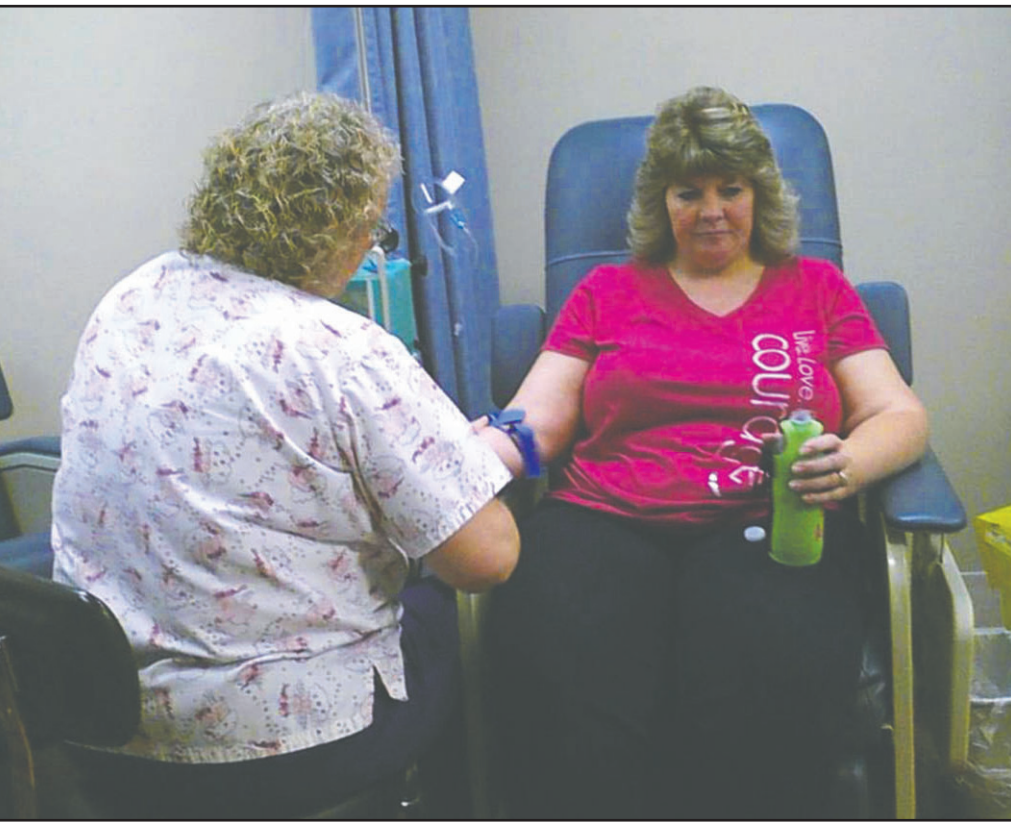

Through it all, Adrian never gave up on her faith in God or her fight against cancer. Her favorite saying was "Me and God, we got this!" She says she must give credit where credit is due, and she could not have done it without God. “I knew from the beginning I couldn’t handle it so I had to totally give it to God.”

There was never a time she felt like she couldn’t go on. When fear tried to set in, she knew in her heart that God would turn this test into a testimony. Being a cancer survivor taught her to appreciate and be grateful for things that she might have taken for granted before. Relief set in when tests proved it was not a hereditary gene that caused her cancer, and it could not be passed down to her daughter or granddaughter.

Before having surgery, Adrian asked her doctor the difference in a mastectomy and a lumpectomy. Her doctor explained to her that her cancer was detected early, and that gave her a good prognosis. At the stage she was in, there was a 7 percent chance of it coming back with a lumpectomy and a 4 percent chance with a mastectomy. Her doctor was adamant that the only reason her chances were so slim was due to the fact she performed self examinations and detected a lump herself. Adrian is a firm believer in women becoming familiar with their bodies. She states “Even if you don’t know what you are looking for, you will get familiar with your body, so if something does feel abnormal, and with tears in her eyes, made the first and hardest cut. Once the shock of the first cut wore off, Adrian let her daughter help her out by using her husband’s clippers to get the job done and just get rid of it.

With losing her hair and losing her taste buds, Adrian says another side effect she experienced was “chemo brain.” She said “I couldn’t concentrate to do something like even balance my checkbook. I would really have to focus on things that seem to be so simple before. It was very frustrating not to be able to do things like go to the grocery or even cook for my family.” Radiation was none better. Her hair grew back, but the radiation burns were harder than chemo nausea and metal mouth.

“Cancer did not just affect me. It affected my whole family. There were days I was just too sick to get out of the bed. “ Adrian says that staying positive, trusting God and surrounding herself with positive people helped her get through the worst days. She also says that Facebook helped tremendously. “It was my only outlet to the world outside my bed.” She connected with other women who were experiencing or had experienced what she was going through and with support groups. The KY Pink Connection (now you will know it.”

Once her surgery was over and the chemo began, she said she was not prepared for what she would be facing. The staff at Richmond Oncology had told her she could expect her hair to start coming out about 2 weeks after her first chemo. Adrian said 2 weeks to the day, after washing, drying and starting to style her hair, she felt it coming out in her hands. “It was almost worse than hearing you have cancer. A woman’s hair is her glory and there mine laid in the bathroom floor. It was really difficult for me.” After one more wash, dry and cleaning up her fallen locks off the bathroom floor, Adrian made a bold move. She decided to cut her hair off to avoid the torture of dealing with it falling out little by little. She grabbed the scissors, known as Kentucky Cancer Link) was a huge help to her with transportation needs and assisting her with getting a wig. She also got acquainted with a support group called The Sparkle Caps Project. Their mission at The Sparkle Caps Project is to empower women in treatment for cancer with support, love, and personal experiences of cancer survivors; to let women know that in spite of their hair loss, they are HOT CHICKS, that their femininity is not tied to their hair; to help women maintain positive attitudes, because that is part of the battle.

Adrian has met many people through her battle. She said she felt like in fighting cancer, there was a front line, a middle line and a back line. She feels like she was on the back line. “I did not have to endure what so many others have. I was on the back line with my little fight.” Adrian is still in remission. Her doctors tell her she is not cancer free until she reaches the five year mark. She still takes medication, and she still suffers side effects from chemo and radiation, but she is driven by her desire to help other women who are fighting the giant. A friend shared with her that because Adrian shared her story, it prompted her to get her first ever mammogram. If it had not been for Adrian sharing what she was going through, her friend’s breast cancer would have went undetected for who knows how long. Knowing that by sharing her story she can help other women and help educate others about early detection being the key, is why she continues to fight like a girl.

satisfied with the findings, or lack thereof.

Durbin said her property was purchased in 1978, and she recalls the city trying to annex it in the 1990's, but with no success. She also said she and her husband had established a business, but they had never had to have a privilege license there.

Mayor Farmer said he thinks the city will have to "move forward from now."

"This council is trying to correct something that someone else made up," he said.

Councilman Burkhardt said, "I know that there are questions...maps were generated based on something. They were not just pulled out of the air."

"We have to have lines, boundaries; if we don't, everybody's going to be lined up wanting out."

A second reading for the pay scale ordinance was on the agenda, but it was tabled until the next meeting because Attorney Davis had to leave the meeting early.

Members of the council had some comments on the proposed merger between Irvine and Ravenna.

Mayor Farmer said property tax on a $60,000 house in Ravenna is $300, but the same property taxed under Irvine's rates would be $255.

Councilman Tommy "Tobo" Bryant said, "Personally, I'd like Ravenna to come in." He pointed out that Ravenna would not be "taken over" by Irvine, but that the two would merge. He also said Irvine would take on Ravenna's debt.

Councilman Glenwood Tipton said he too is for the merger.

Joe Crawford was present at the council meeting to report for the Estill Development Alliance.

He said he has received positive feedback about the candidate forum. Other civic engagement projects considered for the future include a newly elected official's academy and a prospective candidate workshop.

Crawford said the EDA and ECU Cares are sponsoring a club at the high school that is focused on community service.

Also, the Irvine Chamber of Commerce will have a ribbon-cutting ceremony for Mike's Travel and Tax-Wise which have recently moved their businesses.

Crawford announced a "Zombie Walk" at the Lily Mountain Nature Preserve on October 31 and November 1, a Friday and Saturday night.

He said Leadership LEAP will be taking a trip to Damascus, Virginia to see how they are using trails to revitalize their local economy.

He also announced that signs have been ordered marking Highway 89 as Estill County as a "Scenic Byway."

Councilman Bryant said the Twin City Kruzers raised $450 for Toys for Tots on Saturday night despite the rain. He said including other projects, they now have a total of $900 for Christmas gifts for children.

Mayor Farmer said the Hospice 5K Color Run was a success and had a good turnout despite gray skies.

Farmer said the city will be getting salt from the county again this year, but the rate has jumped from $72 a ton last year to $99 this year.

Enrollment period now open for Medicare, other programs

The Medicare Open Enrollment period begins October 15th and ends December 7th. Plan costs and coverage change each year, so everyone with Medicare should review their plan to make sure it will continue to meet their health needs and budget. There may be a Medicare health or drug plan available with better coverage or lower costs beginning in 2015.

The Estill County Senior Center has trained benefit counselors to assist Medicare beneficiaries in reviewing prescription and health coverage options and enrollment. Our annual Medicare Open Enrollment Event is scheduled for Monday, November 10, 2014 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Estill County Senior Center located at 100 Golden Court, Irvine. You must call and schedule an appointment for the Open Enrollment Event (606) 723-4787.

In order to receive enrollment assistance, provide the following information: Name as it appears on your Medicare card; Medicare Claim Number; Effective date for Medicare Part A and/or Medicare Part B; Mailing Address; Telephone Number; Current list of medications, including milligram and dosage; and the name of your pharmacy seeking assistance at our annual event, we will begin individual plan comparisons on the first day of open enrollment. Beginning Wednesday, October 15, 2014 we will offer enrollment assistance. If you have received enrollment assistance through our agency in the past, then it is not necessary to attend our enrollment event. Simply provide an updated medication list, complete the simple personal information sheet and staff will perform a plan comparison. Once staff have performed your comparison, you will be notified by phone or mail of any recommended changes.

Due to the large number of individuals

If we have not assisted you in the past, and you are unable to attend our enrollment event, then you can pick up a personal information sheet from our agency, complete and return it to our office. Staff will perform a plan comparison and notify you by phone or mail of recommended changes.

There is no charge for assistance and it will be available Wednesday, October 15, 2014 through Friday, November 21, 2014. After that date, any requests for enrollment assistance will be referred to Medicare. For more information, please call the Estill County Senior Center at (606) 723-4787.

the deadline for creating such an ordinance has already passed, Van Cleve maintained that the council still needs to create one.

Tipton said pay rates were already in place when she took office, and that the only thing she had changed was her own pay, which she lowered because "the city couldn't afford it."

Van Cleve declared that "illegal" without an ordinance.

Tipton said she would call the Kentucky League of Cities right away for advice on how to proceed with the ordinances. She said three of the council members could meet at a time to begin working on them.

Councilman Louis Officer and Councilwomen Amy Crowe and Tina Johnson agreed to help create them after hearing back from the KLC.

Crowe asked Van Cleve if he would like to work on the ordinances since he brought them up, but he declined.

Officer said he would do it, but he didn't want to hear any " _ and groaning after we do it."

plans are about to get underway, and the bidding could begin on the first of the renovations in late November or early December. Many of the proposed sites are on Elm Street, with others on Holly, Poplar, Sixth and Seventh Streets.

Also, the second reading of the amended CDBG Grant Budget was accepted by the council.

Trick or Treat night was set for Thursday night, October 30, as is the city of Irvine's.

Louis Officer announced that there will be a Memorial Service for veterans on Saturday, November 8, at 11 a.m. at the Ravenna Park. He said there will be a pinning ceremony for World War II Veteran Claude Jones during that service.

City Clerk Robin Sewell said there have been applications for two privilege licenses. One is for a heating and cooling business at 133 Main to be operated by Dustin Arvin, and the other is for a restaurant and sports bar on Main Street in the Witt building. D and W Enterprises has applied for that license.

Curiosity may have killed the cat, but can it improve the mental acuity of seniors, asks the Association of Mature American Citizens.

Renewable fuel standard: Running on empty rhetoric

By Robert L. Bradley Jr.

The nation’s oil and gas boom continues to pay off for most Americans. The motor club AAA reports that gasoline prices have hit a four-year low. And according to many analysts, prices are likely to keep falling. That’s the good news. The bad news is the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)’s mandate to add ethanol to gasoline. The Renewable Fuel Standard (RFS) is intended to cut greenhouse gas emissions; in reality, this quota harms the environment by doing just the opposite. And by continuing to enforce the RFS, government officials are needlessly driving up prices for food and gasoline. It’s time leaders admit that the RFS is a policy failure.

When lawmakers created the RFS in 2005, they made two incorrect assumptions. First, they predicted that annual fuel consumption would keep growing indefinitely to require refiners to steadily increase the amount of renewable fuels blended into gasoline. Since 2007, however, U.S. gasoline consumption has fallen by 6 percent. As biofuel requirements increase, refiners are fast approaching the 10 percent “blend wall” -- the maximum blend suitable for all vehicles on the road today. Regulatory inertia will soon render America’s gasoline dangerous to many car and truck engines. Second, lawmakers failed to foresee the current domestic energy renaissance. The RFS was touted as a strategy for reducing America’s need for oil imports. Yet America’s energy supply is no longer in question. Thanks to the shale energy revolution, the country has emerged as the world’s leading oil producer. By 2019, domestic production is expected to reach more than 13 million barrels a day. Unnecessarily increasing motor-fuel prices is bad policy. Joseph LaVorgna, chief U.S. economist at Deutsche Bank, recently calculated that a one-cent fall in pump prices frees up a billion dollars to be used elsewhere in the economy. Enter the RFS, which the Congressional Budget Office predicts will raise gasoline prices between 13 and 26 cents per gallon by 2017. The Obama Administration and crony capitalists seem intent to snatch defeat from the jaws of victory. Even pro-renewable green activists reject biofuels, particularly corn-based ethanol, because of their ecological harm. A recent report from the United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change reveals that, in many cases “indirect emissions [from biofuels] . . . can lead to greater total emissions than when using petroleum products . . .” The UN report also notes a variety of other environmental costs to producing biofuels, including nitrogen pollution from fertilizers, a loss of biodiversity, as well as water scarcity. One prominent environmentalist, Craig Cox of the Environmental

Working Group, has even called the government’s promotion of ethanol an “ecological disaster.” With corn in high demand, prices for everything from poultry to beef have shot up. In chain restaurants alone, the RFS raises the price of food by an estimated $3.2 billion a year. Thankfully, the EPA has hinted at flexibility regarding the mandate. Last year, it proposed cutting the standard for the first time. However, the agency has since submitted its latest RFS proposal to the White House. And many suspect the standard will be raised after all. The debate over whether to raise or lower the RFS is beside the point. Any policy hampering our economy, raising the cost of living, and worsening the environment is bad. Lawmakers should be asking: how soon can we repeal the RFS? *Robert L. Religious entities must protect our freedom or lose our freedom

By Glenn Mollette

Religious entities benefit from being in America. In most cases they enjoy 501(c)(3) nonprofit status. This means Catholics, Protestants, Mormons, Muslims and all other churches, synagogues, temples and mosques do not pay taxes. Religious entities are also privileged to promote their religion. This is a good thing for our country. Our forefathers and thousands of Americans have paid the price in effort and blood to guarantee our country this privilege. The Muslim religion has grown dramatically in this country. From September 11, 2001 until 2010 Muslims grew from one million to 2.6 million followers according to the US Religion Census of 2010. The data was collected by the Association of Statisticians of American Religious Bodies and released by the Association of Religion Data Archives. The report is available on the ARDA website. During the same time frame, followers of the Christian faith diminished. The number of people in our country who do not align themselves with any religion was reported to be up to 158 million people. This was the fastest growing group during the same timespan. I am not aware of any church or religion that teaches that our country or flag should be worshiped. However, every religious entity should stand up for this country, salute our flag and be united in protecting this nation. When I was a child we often said the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag in Bible school. Part of our worship was respecting and paying tribute to our nation. All religious groups including Muslims should cry out against ISIS and Sharia law. There is no room in this nation for the mistreatment of people. This includes all people. Militant Islam, discrimination, Sharia law and hurting other people must be forbidden in this country. We could even go a little further with this. What about churches who forbid women to speak and will not allow the divorced to serve? Christian churches have been offenders of discrimination for centuries. The practice of religion is the opportunity to promote a faith that helps mankind. We’ve had enough hurt in this country from discrimination to mistreating our own citizens. While we have come a long way in this nation we must continue to be vigilant to maintain a free and safe America. If we don’t all get on board and help each other protect this nation we could lose all of our religious freedoms. We could also lose any other freedom for which hundreds of thousands of Americans have died. *Dr. Glenn Mollette is an American columnist and author. He is read in all 50 states. Crabtree: Clean Water Act muddies the water

by John Crabtree,
Center for Rural Affairs

In March, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Army Corps of Engineers proposed a rule to close loopholes in the Clean Water Act that have left more than half of America’s streams and millions of wetland acres unprotected from pollution. Since then, organizations and individuals who don’t seem that concerned about clean water have leveled every possible criticism against the proposed rule – and some that seem impossible.

I’ve read the proposed rule. I wonder how many of these critics can say the same, especially those who espouse fanciful theories about regulating puddles and even the rain as it falls from the sky. Is the Waters of the U.S. rule perfect? No, and the Center for Rural Affairs and others have offered credible critiques aimed at improving the rule. True democracy calls for real debate, not mud-slinging and hyperbole. Rural America – and the family farmers, ranchers and small town folks therein – are the tip of the spear when it comes to protecting America’s water quality. The proposed Waters of the U.S. is a commonsense effort to clear the regulatory waters, protect the nation’s surface waters, and provide an environment in which economically vital activities such as hunting, fishing and birding as well as farming and ranching can thrive and contribute to a better quality of life and safer drinking water for those of us that live here, and also for our neighbors downstream. Let’s stop muddying the waters, debate how to improve the rule, and move forward.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,
The voters of Irvine and Ravenna will find on the November 4, 2014 ballot a proposal to merge the cities of Irvine, Kentucky and Ravenna, Kentucky into one city of Irvine, Kentucky. If the people of Irvine and Ravenna approve the merger, the council members of both cities will remain in office until the November 2016 election (KRS. 81.430). At this election, only six members will be elected to serve the merged cities. Anyone qualified from either former city can run for city council. When the cities merge, no other elected city officer (Mayor) has the apparent right to remain in office according to OAG 67-149. Another election must be held to elect a mayor for the newly formed city of Irvine, Kentucky. If the merge is approved by both cities, Ravenna residents will enjoy the benefits of lower property tax, lower motor vehicle tax, lower home owners insurance premiums, full-time fire department, full time police protection, full time street and sanitation department. Ravenna has the services of the Irvine Municipal Utilities who provide excellent service and the lowest rate in the area. Ravenna will also have zoning and planning. Should the merge fail to pass and the City of Ravenna fails due to lack of funds to operate, the city would become a part of Estill County and be governed by the Estill County Fiscal Court. Ravenna would lose its street lights, mandatory garbage pickup, street workers, nuisance and noise ordinance and animal control ordinance. Without the animal control ordinance, people would be allowed to have any and all kinds of animals. Ravenna will not have the same level of fire and police protection that would come into merged cities. Ravenna’s home-owners’ insurance premiums will increase under the county government. Ravenna property owners would no longer pay city taxes and have no city services. The Veterans Memorial Park would not be maintained as it is now. I’m of the opinion that merging the city of Irvine and Ravenna into one city would benefit the citizens of both by being governed by one local government.

William C. Van Cleve
Ravenna Councilman

Aunt Nannie's Bell

By Jerry Eltzroth
CV&T Guest Columnist

and had as normal a life as most children growing up in rural Kentucky during the late 1800's. Her father, Aaron, was a farmer who scraped out an existence for his family on the farm now owned by Clay and Candy Mansfield on Webb Road. Aunt Nannie's plans to be married and her entire life were changed when she was a young woman. She suffered a stroke that paralyzed her right arm and affected her speech. Because of the disabilities she decided to forego her marriage.

In 1900 Dorothy Floyd bought a tract of land from William and Sarah Gould for $75.00 with the stipulation that her daughter, Nannie Bet, would receive title at her death. This tract of 30 acres of land is where Judy Adams lives now. There was a log house on the property, or it may have been built later, in which Nannie Bet eventually resided. The 1910 census stated that Nannie Bet was living with her father, Aaron Floyd. Nannie Bet's mother died in 1907. The 1920 census listed the following as living in the household: Aaron Floyd, Nannie Bet Floyd and Dorothy Smithers, Nannie Bet's neice. Aaron was 80 years old. Dorothy was 18 years old and only 2 years away from her death from crippling arthritis. Nannie Bet was most likely caring for both of them. When her father died in 1923, Nannie Bet was living alone.

In must have been difficult for Aunt Nannie to survive on her own but she seemed to overcome all obstacles. My mother always said that Nannie could string and break green beans as well as anyone. It is amazing what people with disabilities can overcome. She may have received a small inheritance from her father. She may also have received a small pension since her father was a Civil War Veteran. I have an original letter from the Grand Army of the Republic indicating Aaron Floyd had been a member of their organization. The G.A.R. helped Civil War Veterans receive their benefits. Jake Rose told me that his great Aunt Nannie seemed to have a little money but was not

Gus Smithers, and Lilly (Smithers) Rose with their bedfast Aunt Nannie at Lilly's house in 1954. Nannie Bet was near the end of her life of giving to others.

In every generation of a family there seems to be a very special person that always gives more than they receive. My great, great Aunt Nannie Bet Floyd was the 'Mother Teresa' of her family. Although I never met Aunt Nannie, I have heard many, many stories from family members and others about her gentle caring nature. There was never a negative comment about her.

Aunt Nannie was the youngest child of Aaron and Dorothy (Webb) Floyd of Witt Springs. She was born on June 11, 1879 sure of the source.

Whenever anybody in the family needed help Aunt Nannie volunteered. When Aunt Nannie's namesake, Nannie Bet (Richardson) Adams, was in poor health she helped to care for her and the young children. Zelma Lee (Adams) Hall said her older sister, 'Polly', and Aunt Nannie cared for her mother, sisters and 2 year old brother, Jennings Adams. Zelma Lee said once Jennings went running out of the house naked. To which Aunt Nannie exclaimed, "Upon my word!" My great grandmother, Eliza (Floyd) Smithers, walked with Aunt Nannie to visit their niece, Nannie Bet Adams. On their return trip Eliza remarked to her sister that Nannie Bet would not last much longer. Unfortunately Nannie Bet Adams died in 1936 at the very young age of 33. Her husband, Garrett Adams, now had the challenge of raising their children—Pauline (Polly), Lorena, Ima Jean, Zelma Lee, and Jennings.

Aunt Nannie took on the task of helping her older brother, John Floyd, when he lost his wife in 1945. Hazel Floyd told me that Aunt Nannie would walk by her house everyday to Uncle John's so she could cook and help him. She walked from Webb Road to the end of Cobb Ford Road where John lived. Hazel also said that Aunt Nannie referred to the young children as "doodle bugs." Aunt Nannie walked to the Primitive Baptist Church that was located across from the Webb School on Sand Hill Road. It was commonplace in those days to walk several miles to neighbors, to church, to the local general store, or even to town.

Aunt Nannie's house caught fire and was partially burned in 1953 when she was 74 years old. My grandmother, Ruby Dickerson, said she remembered that Aunt Nannie's dog awoke Nannie and she was able to escape the burning house. Unfortunately, her dog perished in the fire. Jake Rose told me he thought the fire happened during the day. The old log house was unlivable and Aunt Nannie had to start living with relatives. Her niece, Provey (Smithers) Lutes took Nannie to Indiana to live with her. It was not long before Aunt Nannie fell and broke her hip. Provey was no longer able to care for Aunt Nannie and she brought her back to Witt Springs in January of 1954. Jake Rose said his mother, Lillie (Smithers) Rose welcomed Aunt Nannie to her home. Jake felt sorry for Aunt Nannie because she had no place to go. Lillie took good care of Aunt Nannie until she passed away on August 16, 1954.

With Aunt Nannie's passing her small estate had to be settled. Her 30 acres was sold for $1,000.00 in 1955 and divided amongst her heirs. Her home place exchanged hands a couple times before Jennings and Judy Adams bought it and built their brick home on the site of Aunt Nannie's log house. The old well and pump still sits behind the new house. Jennings thought a great deal of his great Aunt Nannie. I am sure Aunt Nannie was pleased when Jennings acquired her old home site. Just before Jennings passing in 2012 I showed him a picture of Aunt Nannie. He asked if I could make him a copy. I told him I would, but I procrastinated and did not get a copy made until after his death. I presented Judy with the picture so it could be passed on to their children.

Somehow my Grandma Ruby acquired the dinner bell that belonged to Aunt Nannie. My Grandpa, Bill Dickerson, removed the clangor and converted the bell to a yard light. The bell was placed on a post by the road at the top of the sidewalk that led to their house and illuminated the walk for guests at night. My great Aunt Rhoda's husband, Fred Simpson, admired the bell so much that Grandpa gave it to him. The clangor was replaced and Fred placed it on a post by their patio in Dayton, Ohio where it remained for many years. I had visited their home often in my youth and young adult life. That is where I first learned of the bell's origin.

In the early 1970's Uncle Fred and Aunt Rhoda needed to downsize. One Saturday evening my wife and I were visiting when Uncle Fred mentioned he was going to sell the house. I asked him to price it. He did and I told him I would buy it. He seemed a bit shocked that I jumped on his offer that quickly, but I always loved that house. As part of the deal he said I could have Aunt Nannie's bell.

In 1979 my first wife and I went separate ways. In 1980 I sold the house and nearly everything I owned, but I made sure Aunt Nannie's bell was safely stored in my mother's basement. After several years of roaming the world I came to live on my great grandparents' farm. Aunt Nannie's bell, of course, came with me. I believe I heard the bell ring for joy when it was mounted on a cedar post in the sandy earth of Witt Springs. It had seemingly been around the world. Somehow I have always felt the bell was entrusted to me and have always tried to take good care of it. One day it will be passed on to a trustworthy relative along with this story.

How many of us are more selfishly concerned about ourselves instead of others? I have been guilty. Whenever I see Aunt Nannie's bell or hear it ring I think of how she always gave to others and asked for nothing in return.

Citizens of Estill, Lee and Owsley County

On November 4th who will you elect as your next Circuit Judge?

Before you vote, consider these facts:

Michael Dean has 26 years of experience and is the only candidate with experience trying all of the kinds of cases which the Circuit Judge must preside over, including felony criminal trials, civil suits, divorce, child custody and adoption*

Dean is a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Civil Engineering and the University of Virginia School of Law, one of the top 10 law schools in the Country*

Dean is a licensed civil engineer who worked in the coal industry prior to becoming an attorney*

As an attorney, Dean has had numerous high profile cases in both State and Federal Court, many resulted in important legal precedents and published decisions in both civil and criminal areas of law*

Dean will ensure that justice is swiftly, fairly and firmly applied, and that all cases, criminal, civil, and family law, are promptly resolved*

Consider Dean’s performance as Master Commissioner and Domestic Relations Commissioner and contrast that with his opponent’s job performance as Commonwealth Attorney*

Make the right choice. On November 4th, vote for Michael Dean, the only candidate who does not need on the job training, who has the qualifications and experience to get the job done

After the long hot days of summer and a few weeks of “you gotta be kidding” weather, Mother Nature has again shown us that we cannot control her. We are now fast approaching a date on which we CAN have some control. That date is November 4, 2014, when we will honor a 200 year old mandate, by going to the polls and choosing who we want to lead us as Mayor for the next four years. I hope you now know a little more about me, who I am, and what I stand for. A MAYOR emphasis will be put on revitalizing downtown by making the city CLEANER, PROVIDING more and better PARKING, WORKING CLOSELY with the POLICE DEPARTMENT to make downtown streets safer by providing them with all the resources they need, such as equipment, advanced training, more officers or whatever is necessary for them to properly do their job. I want to see that all city employees are treated as equals in the city by providing a PROPER and COMPETITIVE WAGE SCALE, while also providing a safer and healthier work environment. These actions, plus INCENTIVES, such as TAX ABATEMENTS and a willingness to work closely with organizations within our community who are working to bring businesses to the downtown area will surely enhance our ability to do all of the above and also give people a reason to come downtown. I had hoped to convey more information to you at the “Meet the Candidates” forum, but with the strict time limits that we had and the desire to honor those guidelines set by the forum coordinators, I was unable to say more. I thoroughly enjoyed the forum, as I was able to meet the candidates who have stepped up and said, I want to serve Estill County and the Cities of Irvine and Ravenna. I was excited to see that we do have competent and talented people who are willing to serve. I look forward to, hopefully, working with all of you in every way possible for the betterment of our community over the next four years.

Nelle Williams says she is looking forward to another term on the city council so she can hear new and fresh ideas. I said then, and I will say again, I have those NEW and FRESH IDEAS and I am really excited to share them with my fellow constituents. I have shared some of these ideas with a lot of you in a one on one conversation, and will eventually share them with everyone. I am sure there will be more to come and that some present ones will be refined and changes made after getting input from other elected officials and also YOU, the citizens of the city. Remember, this is YOUR CITY, so I pray you will step up, be heard and let us send a message to the “good ol’ boys” network, that Irvine will no longer do business in the same old manner it has in the past. I am certain I was clear in my opinion about the merging of the cities of Irvine and Ravenna. After hearing several people talking about one government county wide. I will enthusiastically promote the proposal that is on the ballot now and proposed that 3-5 years down the road we take a good look at this merger, if implemented, then if we feel we want to go further, we will have a blueprint of the past to follow to make sure we do it correctly, for the good of all citizens.

One idea that I wish to share with you now is that of finding some way to DAILY honor our veterans and all military personnel, for the price they have paid and are still paying to this very day. For their service to and for our country. As I was thinking about this letter, and how to express this thought to you, it hit me about the COURAGE AND SACRIFICE of these BRAVE MEN AND WOMEN who have served and are still serving today, that as they stood shoulder to shoulder, fighting the enemy, not once did a thought enter anyone’s mind that he or she could not work or fight with the person standing next to them because they were either Democrat or Republican. They were all simply AMERICANS and that is all I need to be to function in this world.

Wouldn’t it be nice to see our elected officials in that cesspool called Washington, D.C. function simply as AMERICANS and not as politicians serving their party, instead of the people.

I know my opponent has said that he is not concerned about me because I am an independent and he is a Republican. Meaning, therefore, if you area Republican you MUST vote for him. I strongly disagree with this assumption and ask that you rise above this age old tradition by using the mind your Precious Lord gave you and make your own decisions for yourself. As I said before, I am very CONFIDENT in my ABILITY to KNOW what I THINK and DO, and I hope you will do the same. I encourage you to vote on November 4, 2014, and I am still convinced beyond any doubt that I am the BETTER MAN for the job. Give me your vote of confidence, and I will prove to you that I am. Don’t just VOTE for me, but HELP me make the necessary changes that is best for the City of Irvine. It will take all of us to accomplish this. Remember, TOGETHER we not only CAN but WILL do BETTER. Thanks for your valuable time. I promise to serve you with the utmost in Sincerity, Dignity, Integrity, and RESPECT. Not just for the office of Mayor, but for all people.

PRAY THAT GOD WILL BLESS OUR COUNTRY as we are in dire need of help.

Man wanted on warrant turns himself in Drug round up continues

The Irvine Police Department made two more arrests last week as they continue investigating drug trafficking across the county.

On October 7, William Puckett, 23, turned himself in to police. He was served with an indictment warrant from the Estill County Circuit Court which charged him with one count of trafficking in a controlled substance, first degree; two counts of trafficking in a controlled substance, second degree, and trafficking in a legend drug, first offense.

He was served a bench warrant for failure to appear for a pretrial conference for traffic violations.

On October 8, Randall Lee Wiseman, 43, of 803 Broadway, was arrested after he was brought to the Irvine Police Department for an interview pertaining to illegal drug trafficking in and around the city of Irvine. According to the police report, Wiseman ,Aústated and confessed,Âu that he sold an oxycodone 30 mg to a confidential informant for $30. He was then taken into custody but later released on a $5,000 cash bond.

‘John Doe’ arrested after giving false name

Jeffrey S. Rose, also known as “Bodean,” and “John Doe,” was arrested at the Irvine Shell Mart after he gave false information to a police officer.

Rose was a passenger in a vehicle involved in a traffic stop when he gave Officer Karl Rifenbark the wrong Social Security number four times. Each time, the number came back to a different person or a non-existing person.

Rose was told that providing false information is an arrestable offense, but he continued to give it anyway, according to the police report.

He was also showing signs of intoxication. Following Rose’s arrest, Officer Rifenbark found a spoon in his pocket. Another officer noticed a needle and a spoon fall onto the sidewalk at the jail as Rose was being lead into it.

Rose was charged with giving an officer false name or information and possessing drug paraphernalia.

Police Beats

Irvine Police Department

10-8 Phillip Cox, 39, of 215 North Hudson, was arrested by Irvine Police Officer John Sturniolo after he was seen swerving on River Drive. Cox failed field sobriety tests and refused a blood draw at the Marcum and Wallace Memorial Hospital. According to the police report, he stated that he took methocarbamol (a pain killer) earlier that day. A prescription filled on October 1 for 90 tablets, which were to be taken three times a day, only had 55 pills remaining.

10-10 Devin Coffey, 18, of 179 Glory Street, was arrested on a warrant for assault, fourth degree, by IPD Officer Karl Rifenbark after Sheriff’s Deputy Russell Morris stated that on August 27, 2014, Coffey punched and kicked Jacob Lewis several times in the face and head. The assault resulted in Lewis having seven staples put in his head, according to the police report.

10-10 Sharon Robertson, 50, of 129 Big Hill, Richmond, was arrested after a call to 117 Estill Avenue about a family altercation. Upon arrival, Officer Karl Rifenbark discovered Robertson was highly intoxicated and arguing with a family member.

According to the police report, Robertson had recently been released from jail under the condition of not consuming alcohol. After being found to smell strongly of alcohol and having slurred speech and being unsteady, she was charged with alcohol intoxication, third degree or greater, within 12 months, and being in contempt of court.

10-10 Melissa Drake, 44, of 104 Sparks Avenue, was arrested by IPD Officer Karl Rifenbark after she was stopped in traffic at Shell Mart and charged with driving on a DUI suspended license. She was served a bench warrant from Estill County District Court on charges that she violated conditions of release from an earlier charge.

Estill County Sheriff’s Department

10-12 Misty Dehart, 35, of 852 Dry Branch Road, was involved in an auto accident on 1360 Rice Station Road when she struck a parked car belonging to Baker’s Pool Supply and left the scene, according to a police report. She was later found at 1120 Rice Station Road and admitted to striking the van at 1360 Rice Station. Dehart showed signs of being under the influence and was taken to the hospital before being lodged in jail.

RE-ELECT

RODNEY G. DAVIS

ESTILL COUNTY ATTORNEY

PROMISES MADE,
PROMISES KEPT

Keeping promises to the Citizens of Estill County by taking action not words:

• Our latest DUI conviction rate is 91.1%. Prior to my taking office the conviction rate was 66.7%. Since I have been in office this conviction rate has averaged 90%.
PROMISE KEPT!

• We have filed answers in every civil case where the county was named as a defendant and was properly served including more than 240 cases involving delinquent taxes. As a result we have collected over 2.5 million dollars in delinquent taxes that help support our schools, libraries and other taxing districts.
PROMISE KEPT!

• No criminal cases have been dismissed in district court for the failure of the Commonwealth or prosecutor to produce the required evidence.
PROMISE KEPT!

• We have collected over $190,000.00 in cold checks and paid merchants almost $32,000.00 in merchant fees for cold checks.
PROMISE KEPT!

• We have aggressively prosecuted defendants that violated the terms of their plea agreements by filing over 575 motions to revoke probation or conditionally discharged jail time.
PROMISE KEPT!

• Our office has been on call 24 hours, seven days a week for law enforcement to obtain search warrants, emergency mental health warrants or to simply ask for direction on a particular issue.
PROMISE KEPT!

• Our office is open Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. to allow citizens an opportunity to do business outside of the normal work week.
PROMISE KEPT!

• We have drafted legal documents for hundreds of thousands of dollars in grant applications that have brought both equipment and money to Estill County to better the community.
PROMISE KEPT!

• I have actually drafted all the ordinances and regulations for Estill County during the last eight years. A review of the records of the Estill County Court Clerk’s Office will show that no other attorney, including my opponent, has drafted a single ordinance or regulation for Estill County.
PROMISE KEPT!

• We have drafted the majority of the search warrants for law enforcement in Estill County from murder cases to drug cases and since I have been in office not one single search warrant we have prepared has been overturned by a court. One was even affirmed by the Supreme Court of Kentucky.
PROMISE KEPT!

Kruzers tour the gorge

Photos submitted

On Saturday, October 4, the Twin City Kruzers enjoyed a trip to Natural Bridge through the Red River Gorge. They traveled the backroads and went to the bridge for a picnic lunch. Those attending the cruise to the gorge include Jack Chaney, Mary Chaney, Darrell Hall and Dorothy Hall, Crabtree, Bobby Edmonson, Pat Edmonson, Oakley Chaney, Brenda Chaney, Howard Richardson, Tommy “Tobo” Bryant, Kenneth Tipton, Mike Johnson, Terry Johnson, David Jones, Debbie Jones, and Alford Jones. All were from Irvine with the exception of Alford Jones, who is from Clay City. The President of the Twin City Kruzerz is Kenneth Tipton. The last cruise-in of the season was in downtown Irvine on Saturday and is the largest fundraiser for the annual “Toys for Tots” toy drive. All new toys will be purchased from monies raised.

Mercy Primary Care welcomes new healthcare providers

Marcum & Wallace Memorial Hospital (MWMH) is pleased to welcome physician, Jenni Skorupa, MD, and nurse practitioner Dustin Wattenberger, APRN to Mercy Primary Care in Irvine. They join the existing team of providers including: Dr. Maher Kassis, Dr. Mark Rukavina, and Nurse Practitioners Billie Kelley and Pam Isaacs. All will be practicing at the primary care clinic on Richmond Road.

Skorupa earned her medical degree from East Virginia Medical School in Norfolk, Virginia and completed her residency at East Tennessee State University in Bristol, Tennessee. Wattenberger earned his Bachelors of Science in Nursing from Eastern Kentucky University and his Masters of Science in Nursing (Family Nurse Practitioner) from Lincoln Memorial University in Harrogate, Tennessee.

Both Skorupa and Wattenberger care for patients of all ages – from infants to geriatrics – and are experienced in all facets of family medicine, including health and wellness, diagnosis and treatment of various conditions, urgent care needs, health management, acute problems and chronic conditions.

MWMW President & CEO Susan Starling states, “We have added two great providers to our Mercy Primary Team. It’s important for people of our region to have access to quality healthcare providers that can help them work toward a healthier lifestyle and provide the high quality care they need, including education, prevention, wellness and intervention.”

Appointments can be made with Dr. Skorupa and Dustin Wattenberger, APRN, by calling (606)723-7771. Same-day appointments are available. If individuals have previously been seen by Mercy Primary Care, their medical records are on file. If you are a new patient and wish to establish care, Mercy Primary Care participates in most insurance plans.

Dr. Mark Rukavina will return to the clinic in early November.

A Memorial Service
honoring and recalling those from Estill County who have passed during the past year will be held at Irvine First Christian Church
on Main Street, Irvine
Tuesday, October 28 at 7p.m.

This service is sponsored by Marcum & Wallace Memorial Hospital in conjunction with the Estill County Ministerial Association.

This Memorial Service will include scripture readings, reflections by Ministers from our local churches, and the reading of the names of each loved one who has died. The memorial will be held in the context of an inter-faith,
Christian worship service.

Family members of the deceased, as well as the general public, are invited to attend. You do not need to call and sign up to attend.

Please join us as we remember those who have so recently been a part of our lives and whose deaths we recall in the light of the Resurrection.

Re-Elect Bo Morris Estill County Jailer

With November 4th just a few short weeks away, we will choose who we want to represent us.

I would like to thank you for giving me the opportunity to serve this community and with your help to continue to do so. I am not a big time politician or a great public speaker, but I feel like I’ve done my job well and to the best of my ability.

The job of public office is a tough job, but rewarding one, I have been proud to do. It doesn’t matter what you believe, where you are from, what you have, its a job to serve all and I feel I have.

Most already have in their mind who they want to vote for, but the main thing is to go and exercise your right and freedom to choose. I have ea saying that keeps me going every day, “Work today to make tomorrow better than yesterday.”

Thank you for your time and God Bless.

Chapter 5
“Why can’t we enter the contest?” my sister asked in her sweet voice.

“Because neither of us can drive,” I explained.

“Why do you need to drive, Woody?” Mom asked. “If it’s too far for you to walk, your Dad or I will drive.”

“But how can we win the cruisin’ part of the contest if we can’t drive?” I asked.

“There isn’t a cruisin’ category, son,” Dad answered.

“Yes there is,” I said, pointing to the spot. Dad took the newspaper and read the categories aloud.

“Kentucky music, Kentucky art, Kentucky cuisine ... It’s ‘kwuh-zeen,’ silly!” Dad said as he shook with laughter. “I take it that since you can’t pronounce the word you probably can’t define it. Cuisine is a style of food,” Dad explained. “For instance, the Italian cuisine would be pasta, sauces and garlic.”

“Kentucky cuisine,” Mom said, “will focus on the food Kentucky is known for.”

“Kentucky is known for a style of food?” Chloe asked.

“Land sakes, o’ course it is,” Mr. B. answered. “Have you ever tasted a good ol’ cheesy Kentucky hot brown or enjoyed a mouth-watering piece of Kentucky Derby Pie?”

“Barbecue sandwich from Owensboro,” Dad added.

“What about Colonel Sanders’ paw-licking good Kentucky Fried Chicken?” Chloe said, making my belly growl.

“Speaking of food, Mom interjected, “Mr. Blackford, since you’ve been so nice to the pups, would you like to join us for dinner tomorrow? We’d be thrilled to have you as our guest. We just live a mile or so down the road.”

“I’d be obliged, Mr. B. replied. “We can discuss how we’re going to win this contest. Speaking of, how about you cuties take a stack of these old newspapers home? You can browse and learn more about Kentucky. Remember, even if the news is old, we can learn many things, especially about the culture of the Appalachian region that I come from.”

Mr. B., along with my parents, sister and I walked out the front door. He headed one way, and our family turned in the other direction.

“So I see you guys live east of me, Mr. B. observed. “How will I know when I’ve reached your house?”

“That will be easy,” Mom and Dad laughed as Dad spoke. “Just look for the sign that has a picture of wiener dogs in the yard. You can’t miss us.”

“Oh, I added when Dad was finished, “there’s a patch of grass that’s no longer green but yellow.” Everyone laughed, though I didn’t see what was funny about dead yellow grass.

“Well I’ll keep my eyes open for yellow grass then, Mr. B. said as he winked. “See you folks around dinnertime tomorrow.”

“Mom, Mr. B. says he’s from Kentucky, but it sure doesn’t sound like it. He knows things that we’ve never heard of, and he says goofy phrases like ‘sure as shootin’ and says winder instead of window and fellar instead of fellow.”

“Of course he’s from Kentucky, son,” Mom said as we walked home. She paused for a minute as if she was searching to find the perfect explanation.”While people of Kentucky share many things in common, there are many differences too. Kentucky has different geographical regions -- Western Kentucky, north-central Kentucky, south-central Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky. Western Kentucky is known for Land Between the Lakes, Kentucky Lake and tobacco farms. North-central Kentucky is known for the beautiful horse farms, rolling hills, and the large cities of Lexington and Louisville. South-central Kentucky has Lake Cumberland, Dale Hollow and Mammoth Cave. And of course Eastern Kentucky is known for the coal mines, the gorgeous Appalachian Mountains and Daniel Boone National Forest. Many times, people are shaped based on their surroundings. For instance, since farms are plentiful in Western Kentucky, kids in Western Kentucky grow up learning how to work on farms. Because of the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, there isn’t much flat land to farm. However, many work in the coal mines. Boys and girls growing up in Louisville, on the other hand, have more access to the things a big city can bring.

“And even though you and Mr. Blackford both were born in Kentucky, you grew up in different regions. As far as his phrases and adding “r” sounds to words, that’s what you call ‘dialect.’ Dialect is a regional language that has its own grammar, vocabulary and pronunciation. The Appalachian region of Kentucky is known for its own dialect.”

The conversation made our walk home go quickly. I was thinking about how Mr. B. might be missing his home. As we walked through the front door and into the kitchen, I had the most brilliant idea!

The Estill County Lions Club will meet on the first and third Tuesday of every month at Rader's River Restaurant. The meal is at 6:30 p.m. and the business meeting begins at 7 p.m. Estill County Lions Club is part of Lions Club International, with 1.35 million members in 205 countries around the world. We invite those who feel a call to make our community a better place through service to attend and learn about how Lions around the world earn our motto, "We Serve"...

Estill Arts Council

On October 21, at 7 p.m. in the Estill County Public Library community room, the Estill Arts Council welcomes Kentucky Arts Council arts marketing director, Ed Lawrence. Ed will present: "Good Photo-Bad Photo: How to produce photos that will promote your work." This program is sponsored by the EAC with support from the KAC. It is free and open to the public. There will be refreshments. For more information contact Mary Reed, EAC at 606-723-4678.

Community Chorus

There is still time to join the Estill County Community Chorus. Rehearsals are on Thursdays at 7 p.m. at First Christian Church, Main Street, Irvine. Auditions are not required. Rehearsals will be every Thursday night, except October 30 and Thanksgiving, November 27. The concerts will be at First Baptist Church, 351 Broadway, Irvine and will be on Friday, December 5, and Sunday, December 7. The Estill Arts Council has once again partnered with the Chorus for this endeavor. Carol Anne Wilson will be the Director and Nancy Farmer will be the accompanist with Ann Siudmak assisting with rehearsals as needed. We are asking all former members to come back and sing with us for this very special Christmas Concert of favorites. Scholarships will be available. Please see Carol Anne Thursday night or call her at 859-556-0163 for more information.

FBLA's Light Up Rivertown

FBLA will once again organize Irvine's Light Up Rivertown. The event will begin with a Craft/Christmas Fair in the Court House on November 22, 2014. Booth spots are limited and are already beginning to fill up. Entertainment will be provided throughout the day on the Court House steps, Gingerbread Houses can be entered for prizes, the town tree will be decorated with ornaments made by children from Estill County, and a Tree Lighting Service will be held at 6:00 p.m. to conclude the day. Santa will be on hand for pictures, a Horse and Carriage will be available for rides around the Court House, and there will be other surprises throughout the day. Local businesses are encouraged to participate by hosting open houses or other activities as well. Anyone wishing to reserve a spot for the Christmas Fair or a time to perform should call the Estill County High School at 606-723-3537.

Estill Arts Council's Arts & Crafts Show

Looking for a place to offer your original, handmade items for sale? The Estill Arts Council invites you to participate in the 11th annual Arts & Crafts Show on Dec. 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Central Office gym. The show offers an opportunity for people to meet their shopping needs with the perfect, unique gift such as home decor, holiday decorations, wreaths, jewelry, clothing, products for the home, and baked goods.

Area artists and craftsmen can get an application form from the Citizens Guaranty Bank (River Drive), Estill County Public Library, Ravenna Greenhouse or on EAC's Facebook page. The cost of a 10" x 10" space will be $15 for Estill Arts Council members and $20 for non-Estill Arts Council members before Nov. 8. Entries postmarked after November 7 will be an additional $10. For more information call 606 723-4678 or 606 723-5694.

Memorial Service

A Memorial Service honoring and recalling those from Estill County who died during the past year will be held at Irvine First Christian Church on Main Street in Irvine on Tuesday, October 28, at 7 p.m. This service is sponsored by Marcum and Wallace Memorial Hospital, in conjunction with the Estill County Ministerial Association. This Memorial Service will include scripture readings, reflections by ministers from our local churches, and the reading of the names of each loved one who has died. The memorial will be held in the context of an inter-faith, Christian worship service. Family members of the deceased, as well as the general public, are invited to attend. You do not need to call and sign up to attend. Please join us as we remember those who have so recently been a part of our lives and whose deaths we recall in the light of the Resurrection.

Attention Medicare Beneficiaries

It's the time of year again to compare your Medicare Prescription drug or Medicare Advantage plan. If you or someone you know receives Medicare or will soon be a Medicare beneficiary, keep the following dates in mind and mark them in your calendar. Medicare Open Enrollment begins October 15, and goes through December 7. If you are currently enrolled, thinking of switching or just want to see if you are getting the best plan for your money; Medicare Open Enrollment is the time to do just that. Comparing plans during open enrollment ensures that you have the health or drug plan that will fit your needs for 2015.

The SHIP Program, a non-profit organization, will provide comparison assistance at no charge to you. SHIP does NOT sell or endorse any insurance company. We are here to help you make informed decisions in regards to your Medicare needs. Call the SHIP Program at 1-866-516-3051 or visit lablaw.org/SHIP to find out more and to get information about upcoming enrollment events in your area.

The Basics: Memory Loss, Dementia, and Alzheimer's Disease

If you have a loved one who is newly diagnosed, or if you just want to learn more about Alzheimer's disease, this program is for you. This two-hour presentation will explore what everyone should know about memory loss issues and what they mean for all of us. The program will take place at the Madison County Public Library, located at 507 West Main Street, Richmond on Monday, October 27, from 6 to 8 p.m. To register for this program, please call 1-800-272-3900 or e-mail infoky-in@alz.org. Registration is required.

Know the 10 Signs

If you or someone you know is experiencing memory loss or behavioral changes, it's time to learn the facts. Early detection of Alzheimer's disease gives you a chance to begin drug therapy, enroll in clinical studies and plan for the future. The program will take place at the Madison County Public Library located at 319 Chestnut Street, Berea, on Monday, December 1, from 7 to 8 p.m. To register for this program, please call 1-800-272-3900 or e-mail infoky-in@alz.org. Registration is required.

Children’s librarian joins library staff

Whitney Hays has joined the staff at the Estill County Public Library. She is the new children’s librarian.

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

The girl who didn’t own a library card until she was eighteen years old is now the new children’s librarian at the Estill County Public Library. Whitney Hays said her hometown of Iuka in southern Illinois was so small that they didn’t have a public library. The new children’s librarian said she first discovered the library profession at Kentucky Christian University. She began her studies as a nursing student there but later decided to pursue a Humanities degree with a minor in English. She went on to earn a Master’s degree in Library Science with a specialization in children’s services at the University of Kentucky. Getting to know story-time kids is Hays’ first priority in her new job. The library currently hosts a “story hour” on Wednesday and Friday mornings. Hays also plans to take a reading program to local daycare centers Playtime and Angel Keepers. She is working on a few new activities for school-age children. She said she hopes to “fill the gap” between the preschool and teen programs already in existence. Hays also hopes to see the existing homeschool enrichment group grow. On Saturday, October 25, she will be leading a Halloween program for children ages 6 to 12.

The event will be from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. at the library. There will be games and crafts. Although she lives in Lexington, Hays said she may consider moving here in the spring when her lease is up. She has lived in Kentucky for the past six years. Whitney has a canine companion, a Rottweiler named “Charger.” She said she is looking into getting him certified as a therapy animal, and she thinks children would enjoy reading to Charger in the “Paws to Read” program. Hays enjoys crafting in her spare time, something she grew up doing with her mother who often traveled to sewing and art shows. She has started a blog where she will write book reviews and suggest craft ideas for parents and children to go along with some of the books they are reading. The blog can be found at estillcountychildrenread@wordpress.com. She will be also be posting announcements and ideas for activities on the library’s Facebook page. “Everyone has been so welcoming,” said Hays. “I feel right at home here, and I’m happy to serve the community.”

Kentucky Afield Outdoors: Fall bass fishing

This is the second installment of a series of articles titled “Fall Fishing Festival” profiling the productive fishing on Kentucky’s lakes, rivers and streams in fall. You arrive at the Holcomb’s Landing Ramp just after dawn and look at the shoreline of Lake Cumberland. A line of damp rocks several inches thick rings the lake and the rip rap on the face of Wolf Creek Dam. Your heart sinks. They are releasing a lot of water quickly through the dam and into the Cumberland River below it. The first smallmouth bass trip of the fall may be a bust. “When they pull water through the dam, the falling water pulls the predator fish off their preferred habitat,” said John Williams, southeastern fisheries district program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. “Being out of their comfort zone makes them skittish.” Falling water, along with the fall turnover and cold fronts, are challenges in decoding fall bass fishing patterns. Falling water is a common situation found in fall as many lakes across Kentucky experience significant drawdown to winter pool. Most large reservoirs in Kentucky begin the fall drawdown in the middle of October, but others start in late September while a few begin in November.

“This puts the bass more on the move,” said Eric Cummins, southwestern fisheries district program coordinator for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. “Anglers won’t pattern them as well during the drawdown.” Williams said he noticed the flat nature of the upper ends of creek arms during the drawdown of Lake Cumberland for repairs on Wolf Creek Dam. “Dam releases pull water and baitfish off those flats and back into the channel or along steeper banks,” he said. This pulling effect scatters the baitfish, but they relocate and suspend over long points, channel ledges or underwater humps near the mouth of coves or creek arms. The bass follow.

Shad-colored, deep-running crankbaits and suspending jerkbaits fished near these structures work well. Mentally note the location of the first bass of the day and use the same presentation in a similar area on other parts of the lake. As the fall winds blow ever colder air over the surface of Kentucky reservoirs, the top layer of water cools and begins mixing with the chillier, denser water underneath. The thermal layering of the water column formed during the heat of summer breaks up. Eventually, the water’s surface layer is the same temperature and density as the water under it, a phenomenon commonly known as turnover. “During the turnover, the fish are off,” Cummins explained. “The dissolved oxygen levels drop. The turnover releases gases trapped during the summer by temperature that can have a slight sulphur smell.” Williams explained the shallower creek arms and the upper reaches of the lake turn over before the deeper main lake. “The whole water column has to cool down to match the bottom level. In our deep lakes like Laurel River and Cumberland, the full turnover isn’t complete until November and into December,” he said. On shallower lakes like Barren River Lake, the turnover is almost finished. The Louisville District of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers’ website has a graph of the dissolved oxygen profile for all of the lakes in its district including Barren River, Buckhorn, Carr Creek, Cave Run, Green River, Nolin River, Rough River and Taylorsville. From the homepage, click on the “Water Information” tab and the “Updated Lake Temperatures and Dissolved Oxygen Levels” tab. “Most of the readings are taken near the dam, so if the line on the graph is nearly vertical, turnover is done,” Cummins explained. “If the graph shows a strong line at a certain depth, the thermal layers in the water column haven’t broken up yet.” After you arrive at the water and notice off-colored water with a smell, fish another section of the lake. If you are near the dam, the upper lake and major creek arms have likely turned over. If you are in a major creek arm or upper lake, the deeper water at the dam probably hasn’t turned over yet. “The fishing is much better where the lake isn’t turning over,” Cummins said. “If you see turnover on one of our smaller lakes, choose another lake to fish.” Minor cold fronts actually can help fishing in early fall. Bass feed heavily in the days leading up to the front and a small deep-running chrome crankbait draws strikes. After the minor front passes, baitfish school a bit more and settle a little deeper, but bass still hit. The drop shot technique using a 3 ½-inch soft plastic jerkbait in the sexy shad color can work wonders in this situation. A major cold front, especially later in fall, that drops the lake temperature several degrees means tough, but not impossible, fishing. Anglers must downsize their lure size, use lighter line and fish much slower. A 4-inch black finesse worm rigged on a 3/16-ounce small Shakey head and fished in the “dead stick” presentation may save the day. Simply cast to the point, channel ledge or hump and let the rig sink to the bottom. Reel in the slack, keep a tight line and squeeze the rod handle to impart a subtle action to the worm. Grumpy bass that passed by all other offerings often succumb to this. Get out this fall and overcome some of these challenging situations. Fall brings great weather and deserted lakes, perfect conditions for bass fishing. Author Lee McClellan is a nationally award-winning associate editor for Kentucky Afield magazine, the official publication of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. He is a life-long hunter and angler, with a passion for smallmouth bass fishing.

Estill county golf team 14th region champs for third year in a row

The Estill County Boys Golf Team won their third straight Regional Golf Title on Tuesday September 30, at Paintsville Country Club.

The Engineers scored a 310 followed by Paintsville in second place with a score of 313. Andrew Farmer, Joe Benton and Ryan Freeman scored a 76 followed by Caleb Click with an 82 and Jay Winker with an 83.

Andrew Farmer, Ryan Freeman and Joe Benton all tied for fourth individually in the region with their score of 76.

The golf team traveled to Bowling Green on October 9, to compete in the state golf tournament. They finished 21st out of 24 teams that qualified for the state. This was the last high school golf match for our four senior Andrew Farmer, Ryan Freeman, Jay Winkler and Caleb Click.

Marching Engineers deliver best performance of the season

It was a wet, rainy day Saturday, but that did not stop the Estill County Marching Engineers. The group traveled to Hazard for the Hazard High School Band Of Gold Marching Classic. Other southeastern Kentucky bands taking the field were Morgan County, Powell County and Pike Central in Class AA.

After an intensive rehearsal schedule during fall break, the band was anxious to show off what changes and improvements had been made. From the very first note played, it was evident that the hard work had indeed produced results as the Estill County Marching Engineers delivered their best performance of the season.

Out of the five bands in class 2A, the Marching Engineers finished 1st in their class and won best color guard. Although this was not a prelims/finals event, overall awards were still presented after all class awards were handed out. The band won the coveted Esprit de Corps trophy which is awarded to the group that displays the most pride, discipline, respect, and sportsmanship. The band also received best OVERALL COLOR GUARD out of all competing bands regardless of class. The Marching Engineers were then named RESERVE GRAND CHAMPION, earning the second highest score of all participating bands.

With the help of devoted Band Parents and Boosters, the band will head out Saturday for South Laurel to compete in the last regular season contest. Note: that does read “regular season.” These talented youth are not ready to stop the music yet. State is in their reach. Congratulations and keep the train rolling!

Engineers football team rolled in another “W” last Friday night

Tackling Breast Cancer

At last Friday night's Estill vs. Western Hills football game, a little rain didn't stop these ladies from coming out to help raise breast cancer awareness and encourage mammograms.

by Lee Freeman

A little rain didn't stop the train from rolling at Hoover Niece Field last Friday night. Estill County Engineer football rolled in another “W” against Western Hills. The final score in the district match up was 25-8, Estill.

Only one pass was thrown the entire game, and that lead to #12 Kordel Day making an interception off of Western Hills. Fumble recoveries were made by #2 Trevor Jones and #24 Taylor Tate. With 28 carries, Jones rushed for 168 yards, averaging 6 yards per carry. #44 Chipper Hitchcock rushed a total of 69 yards, #15 Dylan Spivey rushed for 23 and #10 Michael Abner gained 2 yards on his carry.

The Engineers defense put the pressure on the Wolverines. They allowed only 8 points, which were scored in the 4th quarter. Jones had a total of 9 tackles. Hitchcock had 7 total tackles. Spivey and Day each had 5 total. Tate and Abner each had 4 total. #20 Logan Edmonson, #51 Austyn Niece, #70 Chris Taulbee, 356 Austin Rose and #25 Blake Fransico each had 2 total tackles. #33 Morgan Taulbee, #52 David Hunt and #55 Taylor O'Hair each had 1 total tackle.

The Engineers will have this Friday night off, as they will prepare for a match up at Garrard County on October 24th. Garrard County is 3-0 for 3A District 5.
